SPEAKER. AUTHOR. FACILITATOR. CONSULTANT.

ABOUT SHAQUANNA

Shaquanna is a sought after speaker and executive presence consultant who has been trusted by Forbes School of Business & Technology, Georgia Association of Women Lawyers, Dominion Energy, and dozens of other organizations who aim to build confidence amongst their emerging leaders.

Her keynotes about facing fear, overcoming insecurities, and removing self-imposed limits have inspired thousands of professionals to tap into their confidence and show up in their full power.

As an in-demand image and style expert, she brings a unique perspective to the meaning of getting dressed; understanding that confidence starts from within first. Her self-published book, Get Up and Get Dressed, guides women through the journey of eliminating self-doubt, fear, and low self-esteem to "get dressed" in their fullest potential.

Shaquanna is able to keep audiences engaged with her compelling spirit, high energy, and interactive activities. Her memorable keynotes and workshops are packed with life-changing tools that increase self-trust in professionals and enable them to strive for their highest potential in their career.

After hearing Shaquanna speak, attendees are able to combat insecurities and reach a new level of confidence that commands the room. Shaquanna's Pursuing Powerful Presence method creates a culture of safety for professionals to be vulnerable and step outside their comfort zone to accelerate their career success. Shaquanna has spoken to the likes of non-profit CEOs, directors at Fortune 500 companies, and members of the City of Atlanta Mayor's Cabinet - just to name a few.
